The Bible: Love and Belief (愛與信念)

GFH1000 In Dialogue with Humanity | Deng Yangzhou | dengyangzhou@cuhk.edu.cn |

A: Preliminaries

Religion & Religiosity

Question: Why do they (we) believe in a religion at all? : Is there a God? Can I prove or disprove the existence of God? Arguably, religiosity (宗教情懷) is an integral and profound part of humanity. In short, it arises from the paradoxical awareness, one the one hand, of the reality that human life is mortal, finite, and limited by nature, but on the other hand, of the aspiration to form a unified, universal, and holistic picture of human life.

"Human reason has this peculiar fate that in one species of its knowledge it is burdened by questions which, as prescribed by the very nature of reason itself, it is not able to ignore, but which, as transcending all its powers, it is also not able to answer."

Kant, Critique of Pure Reason

"The most beautiful experience we can have is the mysterious. It is the fundamental emotion that stands at the cradle of true art and true science. Whoever does not know it and can no longer wonder, no longer marvel, is as good as dead, and his eyes are dimmed. It was the experience of mystery –even if mixed with fear –that engendered religion. A knowledge of the existence of something we cannot penetrate, our perceptions of the profoundest reason and the most radiant beauty, which only in their most primitive forms are accessible to our minds: it is this knowledge and this emotion that constitute true religiosity. In this sense, and only this sense, I am a deeply religious man [...]I am satisfied with the mystery of life's eternity and with a knowledge, a sense, of the marvelous structure of existence -- as well as the humble attempt to understand even a tiny portion of the Reason that manifests itself in nature."

Einstein, A. "The World as I see it"

B: Bible and Christianity

1. Abrahamic Religions

The three monotheistic faiths of Middle Eastern origin, emphasizing and tracing their common origin to Abraham or recognizing a spiritual tradition identified with him.

Those of Jewish faith regard the Hebrew Scripture (希伯來聖經) as their sacred scripture.

Those of Christian faith see both the Old Testament (roughly the same as the Hebrew Scripture) and New Testament as sacred scriptures, usually reading the Old Testament as the preparation of the New Testament.

Those of Islamic faith refer to the Bible as "the Book", loosely respecting it as a sacred book, the holy gist of which had nevertheless been altered by Christians, and as such, the Qur'an alone is the final authoritative voice from God himself.

Question: How would the Jews look at New Testament? And how would the Christian look at Qur'an?

2. Bible the Text

Old Testament (舊約, the old covenant)- the first half of Christian Bibles, originally a collection of religious writings of ancient Israel that forms the Hebrew Scriptures, recording the stories of God and his "chosen people" namely the Israelites and his promise to them to bless the world. The Pentateuch, namely the "Five Books of Moses" (摩西五經) are the core texts of the Old Testament.

New Testament (新約, the new covenant)- the second half of Christian Bibles, recording what Christian believes to be God's fulfillment of the promise made in the Old Testament, namely the birth of the awaited Messiah (彌賽亞 Savior), Jesus Christ, and the development of his Church, as well as his sacrifice for humankind.

Isaiah 9:6: "For to us a child is born, to us a son is given, and the government will be on his shoulders. And he will be called Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace."

Matthew 5:17: Jesus: "I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil."

The Four Gospels are the core texts in the New Testament, among which "Matthew", "Mark", and "Luke" are called Synoptic Gospels (對觀福音), as they include many of the same stories, and being more descriptive of the life of Jesus. The other Gospel, "John", is more theoretic and reflective.

C: The Unifying Theme in Bible: From a Christian Perspective

There are many themes in the Bible, such as creation, human fall and sin, redemption, kingdom of god, etc. For convenience, one can read the whole Bible as a story of united under the theme of love:

God creates the world including humanity, and God loves his creation by blessing humankind a heavenly life.

But humankind keep falling and breaking the covenants made with God.

God loves his people, and his final love is to devote his Son, Jesus, to humankind. Jesus' work, manifested in his miracles as well as teachings, is to reveal the divine love to human world.

Moreover, Jesus' life per se IS God's love, for he suffers all the sins of humankind in his being crucified.

The only way for human to pay off is to believe and then to love—love God and love other people.

John 3:16 "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life."

Romans 5:8 " God shows his love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us."

D: Agape (Christian Love): A Critical Review

行神迹、破旧规、救赎、牺牲

1. The Commandment of Love

Mark12: 28-31: And one of the scribes came up and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, asked him, "Which commandment is the first of all?" Jesus answered, "The first is, `Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength.' The second is this, `You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' There is no other commandment greater than these."

1 Corinthians 13:4-7: Love is always patient and kind; love is never jealous; love is not boastful or conceited. It is never rude and never seeks its own advantage, it does not take offence or store up grievances. Love does not rejoice at wrongdoing, but finds its joy in the truth. It is always ready to make allowances, to trust, to hope and to endure whatever comes.

2) Christian love vs. Confucian love.

Mark 13:31-35 And his mother and his brothers came; and standing outside they sent to him and called him. And a crowd was sitting about him; and they said to him, "Your mother and your brothers are outside, asking for you." And he replied, "Who are my mother and my brothers?" And looking around on those who sat about him, he said, "Here are my mother and my brothers! Whoever does the will of God is my brother, and sister, and mother."

Mark 7:25-30 At once a woman whose little daughter had an unclean spirit heard about him and came and fell at his feet. Now this woman was a gentile, by birth a Syro-Phoenician, and she begged him to drive the devil out of her daughter. And he said to her, 'The children should be fed first, because it is not fair to take the children's food and throw it to little dogs.'But she spoke up, 'Ah yes, sir,' she replied, 'but little dogs under the table eat the scraps from the children.'And he said to her, 'For saying this you may go home happy; the devil has gone out of your daughter.'So she went off home and found the child lying on the bed and the devil gone.

Question: It seems that Christian love is a universal and unconditional love, which transcends the distinction among kinship, race, and even morality. But how do we understand the issue of punishment and hell?

E: Appendix- Tutorial Notes and Questions

1). Key Concepts

Messiah (彌賽亞)： from Hebrew, literarily "the anointed" , namely the saviour promised by God.

Christ (基督): from Greek, literarily "the anointed", also the saviour promised by God

Isaiah(以賽亞,Mark 1:2)： one book in the Jewish Scripture (Christian Old Testament), in which God promised a messiah to Israel.

Kingdom of God (神的國， Mark 1:15): Heavenly kingdom promised by God.

Scribes (律法教師，文士，Mark 1:22): Teachers of Jewish laws.

Moses (摩西，Mark 1:44): A great prophet in both Jewish and Christian faiths, via whom God gave the laws to Israelites. Historically, he was the hero who led people of Israel out of Egypt, and was attributed to be the author of the first five books (Pentateuch (摩西五經) of the Hebrew Scriptures (Christian Old Testament).

The Sabbath day (安息日, Mark 2:23): The seventh day in a week, originally ordered by God as a sacred day.

Pharisees (法利賽人，Mark 2:16): A major sect of Israelites, who were famous for sticking to Jewish laws in daily life. One of the major enemies cursed by Jesus for having distorted the true message from God.

Sadducees (撒都該人，Mark 12:18): Another major sect of Israelites, who believed only in the Pentateuch)，and stuck to the teaching from chief priests (祭司長).

2) Textual Analysis

1) Genesis 2:17 "But of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you may not take; for on the day when you take of it, death will certainly come to you." It turns out, however, Adam and Eva did not die. How to make sense of God's words here from a Christian perspective?

2) Mark 1:17 " The time has come, and the kingdom of God is near". Study other textual evidence of "kingdom of God". How do we understand the nature of Kingdom of God? Is it something to be realized on earth? Or somewhere else? In the present? Or in the future?

3) Mark 2:27 "And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." Why does Jesus conflict with the Jewish scribes on the issue of Sabbath? How many conflictions are there between Jesus and the scribes of Pharisees (Study Mark 7: 1-9, Mark 10: 1-10)? Why?

4) Mark 3:35 "Whoever does God's pleasure, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother." What is the meaning of this expression in the context?

5) Mark 4:11 "And he said to them, To you is given the secret of the kingdom of God, but to those who are outside, all things are given in the form of parables". Why does Jesus use parables?

6) Mark 6:4 "And Jesus said to them, A prophet is nowhere without honour, but in his country, and among his relations, and in his family." Why does Jesus say this?

7) Study Mark 14: 30 and 14: 66-72, and tell the import of the story, namely why Jesus would predict Peter's betrayal.

8) Study Mark 16, and tell what the significance is of Jesus' coming back from death.

3. Group Discussion Questions

1) Why is acquisition of the wisdom of what is good and evil actually a sin?

2) What are the differences between Jesus' actions and those old traditions? Why does Jesus act and speak so differently?

3) Why doesn't Jesus just practice an overall miracle to the whole world, so as to show his love and demonstrate his divinity?

4) Why does the Chief Priest want to kill off Jesus? Think about the question from Christian, Jewish and a non-believer's ways respectively.

6) What is the characteristics of the Christian love? Find textual evidence from Jesus' behaviors and speeches. What are the differences between it and the Confucian love?

7) If you are a Christian, how would you explain the "paradoxical nature" of the Christian love, namely Jesus actually curses unbelievers to the hell, given that his love and forgiveness are boundless and ubiquitous?

II: Important Passages from the Old Testament

创世纪/出埃及记

1）Decalogue (Moses' Ten Commandments) from Exodus (20:2–17)

1). I am the Lord your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery; you shall have no other gods before me. 2). You shall not make for yourself an idol, whether in the form of anything that is in heaven above, or that is on the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. You shall not bow down to them or worship them; for I the Lord your God am a jealous God, punishing children for the iniquity of parents, to the third and the fourth generation of those who reject me, but showing steadfast love to the thousandth generation of those who love me and keep my commandments. 3). You shall not make wrongful use of the name of the Lord your God, for the Lord will not acquit anyone who misuses his name. 4) Remember the sabbath day, and keep it holy. Six days you shall labor and do all your work. But the seventh day is a sabbath to the Lord your God; you shall not do any work—you, your son or your daughter, your male or female slave, your livestock, or the alien resident in your towns. For in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that is in them, but rested the seventh day; therefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day and consecrated it. 5) Honor your father and your mother, so that your days may be long in the land that the Lord your God is giving you. 6) You shall not murder. 7) You shall not commit adultery. 8) You shall not steal. 9) You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor. 10) You shall not covet your neighbor's house; you shall not covet your neighbor's wife, or male or female slave, or ox, or donkey, or anything that belongs to your neighbor.

摩西十诫 一爱神 二爱人

摩西十诫 <出埃及记>（20-2-17）

1）除了我以外，你不可有别的神。2）不可为自己雕刻偶像，也不可作什么形像仿佛上天、下地，和地底下、水中的百物。3）不可妄称耶和华—你神的名。4）当记念安息日，守为圣日。5）当孝敬父母。6）不可杀人。7）不可奸淫。8）不可偷盗。9）不可作假见证陷害人。10）不可贪邻居的房屋；也不可贪邻居的妻子、仆婢、牛驴，和他一切所有的。

2）The Messiah Prediction from Isaiah (53:11–17)

But it was for our sins he was wounded, and for our evil doings he was crushed: he took the punishment by which we have peace, and by his wounds we are made well. But it was for our sins he was wounded, and for our evil doings he was crushed: he took the punishment by which we have peace, and by his wounds we are made well. Men were cruel to him, but he was gentle and quiet; as a lamb taken to its death, and as a sheep before those who take her wool makes no sound, so he said not a word. They took away from him help and right, and who gave a thought to his fate? for he was cut off from the land of the living: he came to his death for the sin of my people. And they put his body into the earth with sinners, and his last resting-place was with the evil-doers, though he had done no wrong, and no deceit was in his mouth. And the Lord was pleased ... see a seed, long life, ... will do well in his hand. ...

弥赛亚预告 <以赛亚书> (53:11–17)

他被藐视，被人厌弃，多受痛苦，常经忧患。他被藐视，好像被人掩面不看的一样。我们也不尊重他。他诚然担当我们的忧患，背负我们的痛苦。我们却以为他受责罚，被神击打苦待了。哪知他为我们的过犯受害，为我们的罪孽压伤。因他受的刑罚我们得平安。因他受的鞭伤我们得医治。我们都如羊走迷，各人偏行己路。耶和华使我们众人的罪孽都归在他身上。他被欺压，在受苦的时候却不开口。（或作他受欺压却自卑不开口）他像羊羔被牵到宰杀之地，又像羊在剪毛的人手下无声，他也是这样不开口。因受欺压和审判他被夺去。至于他同世的人，谁想他受鞭打，从活人之地被剪除，是因我百姓的罪过呢？耶和华却定意（或作喜悦）将他压伤，使他受痛苦。耶和华以他为赎罪祭。（或作他献本身为赎罪祭）他必看见后裔，并且延长年日，耶和华所喜悦的事，必在他手中亨通。他必看见自己劳苦的功效，便心满意足。有许多人，因认识我的义仆得称为义。并且他要担当他们的罪。

III. Questions Within

1) Genesis 2:17 "But of the fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil you may not take; for on the day when you take of it, death will certainly come to you." It turns out, however, Adam and Eva did not die. How to make sense of God's words here from a Christian perspective?
亞當夏娃穿上衣服，有了羞恥感，為什麼反而是壞事？为什么偷吃禁果是一种罪。

2) Mark 2:27 "And he said to them, The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath." Why does Jesus conflict with the Jewish scribes on the issue of Sabbath? How many conflictions are there between Jesus and the scribes of Pharisees (Study Mark 7: 1-9, Mark 10: 1-10)? Why?
<馬可福音>耶穌在哪些方面與舊的傳統相違背，為什麼？

3）Why would the scribes and the Chief Priest put Jesus to death. Think about the question from their perspective.
大祭司和律法教師們為什麼要置耶穌於死地而後快？從不同角度解讀這個問題。

4）Jesus seems to be omnipotent, but why doesn't he practice a universal miracle, saving people from all of their sufferings, in order to convince them into faith about him?
既然耶穌是神的兒子，為什麼他不行一個大神蹟，消除所有人的苦難，從而證明他的身份，堅定所有人的信念。

IV. Questions Beyond

1). Why do the chief priests want to put Jesus to death? Think about this question from the Christian, the Jewish, and then the third-party, perspectives.

2). Study Mark 12: 28-34, and give an account of the content of the Christian love. The Christian love is usually called universal love. Can you make sense of this understanding with some more textual evidence from the Mark? Do you think it is a consistent idea? Think about it from both Christian and non-Christian perspectives.

And one of the scribes came, and hearing their argument together, and seeing that he had given them a good answer, put the question to him, Which law is the first of all?
Jesus said in answer, The first is, Give ear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord; And you are to have love for the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul, and with all your mind, and with all your strength. The second is this, Have love for your neighbour as for yourself. There is no other law greater than these.
有一个文士来，听见他们辩论，晓得耶稣回答得好，就问他说，诫命中哪是第一要紧的呢？耶稣回答说，第一要紧的，就是说，以色列阿，你要听。主我们神，是独一的主。你要尽心，尽性，尽意，尽力，爱主你的神。其次，就是说，要爱人如己。再没有比这两条诫命更大的了。

THE QUR'AN: PEACE & SUBMISSION

GFH1000 In Dialogue with Humanity | Deng Yangzhou | 2018-19 1st | dengyangzhou@cuhk.edu.vn |

A) ISLAM AS AN ABRAHAMIC FAITH

For Islamic Muslims, Christians and Jews are "People of the Book"(有经之人), and the "original Book"(Injil, 天經) of Jesus was authentic, but the current Gospels cherished by the Christians have been altered and distorted.
Muslims, like the Christians, believe in God in the Bible as the only God, and attach paramount importance to loving God and loving one's neighbors.

> Qur'an 29:46 The same religion has He established for you as that which He enjoined on Noah [...] and that which We enjoined on Abraham, Moses, and Jesus . The result of this view is that the scriptures given by these Prophets are considered to be genuine scriptures from God: But say, "We (Muslims) believe in the Revelation which has come down to us and in that which came down to you; our Allah and your Allah is One" .

Muslims see Jesus as the last prophet sent to the Children of Israel and the Messiah miraculously born of the Virgin Mary. But they do not believe that he is the divine Son of God.

> Qur'an 4: 156-158 That they (the Children of Israel) rejected Faith; that they uttered against Mary a grave false charge.
> That they said (in boast), "We killed Christ Jesus the son of Mary, the Messenger of God."—but they killed him not, nor crucified him, but so it was made to appear to them, and those who differ therein are full of doubts, with no (certain) knowledge, but only conjecture to follow, for of a surety they killed him not.
> Nay, Allah raised him up unto Himself; and God is Exalted in Power, Wise.

> Qur'an 2:136 Say:"We believe in God, and in what was revealed to us.In what was revealed to Abraham, to Ishmael, to Isaac and Jacob and the Tribes. In what was revealed to Moses and Jesus. In what was revealed to prophets by their Lord. We make no distinction between any of them, And to Him we surrender."

They believe that Muhammad is the last, and the greatest, prophet or messenger of God! According to Islamic scholars, the Comforter [保慰師] mentioned by Jesus in the Gospel of John should be Muhammad!

> John 16:7 "Nevertheless I tell you the truth: It is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I go, I will send him unto you."
> Qur'an 2:112 The Jews say the Christians count for nothing; the Christian say the Jews count for nothing; yet both recite the Book. The ignorant repeat their statement. God shall judge between them on the Day of Resurrection regarding that upon which they differ.
> Qur'an 2:110: They say "Only Jews and Christians will enter the Garden." Such are their fancies! Say to them: "Show me your proof if you speak the truth."

B) CHRISTIANITY VS ISLAM: KEY DIFFERENCES IN BELIEF

1) The Divine Nature

The Common Belief of Monotheism: There is one God, and only one God, and God is Omnipresent（無所不在）, Omniscient (全知), Omnipotent（全能）, All-Compassionate (仁慈恩惠).

Christian Trinity (Holy Trinity, 三位一體)
In Trinitarian doctrine （accepted by most Christian sects）, God exists as three Persons(位格) or hypostases, but is one being, that is, has but a single divine essence. The members of the Trinity are co-equal and co-eternal, one in essence, nature, power, action, and will. "The Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit" are not three different titles for different parts of God but one name for God, because three Persons exist in God as one unity and the Father cannot be divided from the Son nor the Holy Spirit from the Son. Each person is understood as having the identical essence or nature, not merely similar natures.

Question: Why should there be a theory of Trinity? And does it make any sense to you?

> Matthew 28:19 Go then, and make disciples of all the nations, giving them baptism in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.
> John 10:30 "I and the Father are one."
> John 10:38 "....the Father is in me and I am in the Father."

In Christian tradition the Trinity is a mystery of faith revealed in scripture, beyond human understanding. Theological explanations thus tend to lack or avoid a logical or philosophical foundation. In his explanation of the doctrine of the Trinity, Saint Augustine (Contra Julianum) pointed out that Jesus spoke in similitudes and would later reveal the Father more plainly. Despite his lengthy exposition to explain the Trinity in light of scripture, Augustine states that an explanation is beyond human language and cognition, and that the definition of the Trinity as three Persons is but a similitude needed in order to express it. Augustine concludes that one must believe before one understands, and that the Trinity must remain unknown.

Islamic Tawhid (Oneness, Divine Unicity, 認主独一)

The Qur'an asserts the existence of a single and absolute truth that transcends the world, a unique, independent and indivisible being, who is independent of the entire creation.
As an uncompromising result of this Oneness, God does not take Incarnation (道成肉身) in order to reveal Himself. To take God as Jesus is to breach the boundary between God and humankind, the creator and his creation. This is a serious and sinful distortion of the nature of God.

Qur'an, 112: 1-4 "Say (O Muhammad): "Say: He is God, the One and Only; God, the Eternal, Absolute; He begetteth not, nor is He begotten; And there is none like unto Him."
Qur'an 2:114 Wherever you turn, there is the face of God. God is All-Encompassing, All-Knowing. They say: "God has fathered a child".Glory be to Him! To Him, rather, belongs all that is in the heavens and on earth.

2) Prophets' Nature

For Christians, Jesus is both corporeal (flesh and blood) and divine (transcendent); He is a prophet, but not an ordinary one. He is a prophet of Himself! Christians worship Christ, and that is the meaning of "Christ-ian".
For Muslims, however, Jesus is just one of prophets and messengers of God. Nor do most Muslims take themselves as "Muhammadans", and to call them "Muhammadans" will be offensive, for it implies that they worship Muhammad. Muslims worship God, but not Muhammad!
Does this means that Muhammad is ordinary, or his role is less central to the formation of Islam than Christ's is to that of Christianity? NO. There are many more actions, thoughts, and sayings in Islam that are attributed to Muhammad than there are to Jesus.

W.M. Watt, Bell's Introduction to the Quran: "Muhammad is the mouthpiece of the divine will, which is communicated to him by Gabriel (the Angel), and thus, like a confidential official, he stands on the border-line between the king's court and the subjects."

Muhammad is also respect as the perfect exemplar of human morality by Muslims (the "gold among sands"): His polygamy is understood as tolerance, illiteracy as purity and naivety, fighting as loyalty to God…

3) Human Nature

For Christianity, according to Augustine (Contra Julianum), humanity suffers from original sin (ancestral sin, 原罪), due to the fall of man in the Eden as a result of man's rebellious use of the "free will". And the sinful nature is cumulatively aggravated again and again by the descendants' rebellion against God.

For Muslims, however, original sin is a false and ridiculous idea. God is merciful, and at the first time, he already forgives the ancestors. Adam's falling to earth, therefore, is not to fulfill punishment, but to act as the deputy (khalifah, 哈里发，代理人) of God.

Qur'an 2: 35-37 We said, "O Adam, inhabit the Garden, you and your wife. Eat from it in comfort and ease, wherever you wish. But do not come near this tree, or else you will transgress." Satan seduced them away from it, and caused them to leave their earlier abode. We said "Go down, an enemy each to each! On earth you will find habitation and a certain term of life." And Adam obeyed the words of his Lord, and his Lord pardoned him. He is Ever-Ready to pardon; He is Compassionate to each.

Qur'an 2: 29 And remember when God said to the angels: "I shall appoint a deputy on earth".

In General, Islam teaches that sin is an act and not a state of being. It is believed that Allah weighs an individual's good deeds and against his/her sins on the Day of Judgment and punishes those individuals whose evil deeds outweigh their good deeds. These individuals are thought to be sentenced to afterlife in the fires of Hell.

Qur'an 12: 29 If you avoid great sins which are forbidden you, We will remit from you your evil deeds.

C) CORE BELIEVES AND DUTIES OF MUSLIMS

The Sura of the Cow outlines the core Islamic beliefs and duties, namely what were later officially called "Six Articles of Faith" (六信) and "Five Pillars"(五功).

1) Six Articles of Faith（六信）

Faith in God (信真主), the Last Day (信末日), the angels (信天使), the Book (信天经), the prophets (信先知), and the Predestination(信前定).[1]

2) Five Pillars (五功)

1. Faith (shahada, 念功): to declare that "there is no god but God [Allah] and Muhammad is the messenger of God "; 2. Prayer (salat, 礼功): to pray toward the direction of Mecca five times every day; 3. Fasting (Sawm, 斋功): to abstain from eating during the daytime in the month of Ramadan; 4.Charity (Zakat, 课功)： to donate or spend a portion of one's wealth for the benefit of the poor or needy; 5. Pilgrimage (Hajj, 朝功): to make the pilgrimage to Mecca at least once in their life.

E) QUR'AN:THE SPEECH FROM GOD

1) Qur'an: "to recite".

For the vast majority of Muslims the Qur'an is the speech of God, dictated without human editing, treated by Muslims with ritual purity.

Qur'an 56:77–79 That this is indeed a Qur'an Most Honourable, In a Book well-guarded, Which none shall touch but those who are clean.

Only the Arabic reading of the Qur'an is authentic, and all translations are just interpretation, instead of Qur'an itself. The exact pronunciation if the "rhymed prose" is as important as the meanings of words; oral accuracy is ensured by short vowel-sign in Arabic Qur'an script.

In comparison to the narrative style of Gospels, Qur'an is largely imperative in tone: no story, no illustration, just command -- Let Me tell We what to do!

Totally 114 chapters (sura), 6236 verses (ayat).

Contents are comprehensive. In general, four kinds: Belief, History and Prophet's Lives, Ethics, Laws.

[Question: How do you think about the seemingly illogical organization of Qur'an?]

2) Surat al-Baqara(黄牛篇): A Structural Analysis

The longest sura in the Qur'an. The heading, al-baqara ("The Cow"), is not a chapter title, but is chosen as a convenient label (2:67-71).

286 verses shown in a ring structure giving emphasis to the pivotal central point.

A 1-20 faith vs. unbelief

B 21-39 God's creation; His encompassing knowledge

C 40-103 Moses delivers law to children of Israel

D 104-141 Abraham was tested, Ka'ba built by Abraham and Ishmael; response to People of the Book

E 142-152 Ka'ba is the new qibla; this is a test of faith; compete in doing good

D' 153-177 Muslims will be tested; Ka'ba, Safa and Mina; responses to Polytheists

C' 178-253 Prophet delivers law to Muslims

B' 254-284 God's creation; His encompassing knowledge

F) ISLAMIC JIHAD: STRUGGLING OR SLAUGHTERING ?

"Jihad", literarily means "struggling"(奮鬥), appears 41 times in the Qur'an and frequently in the idiomatic expression "striving in the way of God".

Roughly speaking, there are two commonly accepted meanings of "jihad":

1) The "Greater Jihad"(Jihad-e-Kabir): inner, spiritual struggle by a believer to fulfill his religious duties. This non-violent meaning is nowadays stressed by both Muslim and non-Muslim authors.

2) The "Lesser Jihad"(Jihad-e-Saghir) : the physical or verbal struggle against the enemies of Islam. This physical struggle can take a violent form or a non-violent form. The proponents of the violent form, mostly foundamentalists (原教旨派), translate jihad as "holy war", although some Islamic studies scholars disagree.

[Question: Do you believe that the Qur'an is more belligerent than the Bible?]

Qur'an 2:83 Remember when We made a covenant with you that "You shall not shed one another's blood, nor shall you drive one another out of your homes." But there you are killing one another and driving one party among you from their homes, joining forces against them in sin and aggression.

[1] The Six Articles, except the last one, are stated in Qur'an 2:176.

Qur'an 2:189 Fight in the cause of God those who fight you, but do not commit aggression: God loves not the aggressors. Slay them wherever you fall upon them, and expel them from where they had expelled you; apostasy by force is indeed more serious than slaying. […] If they fight you therein, slay them: such is the reward of unbelievers. But if they desist, then God is All-Forgiving, Compassionate to each. Fight them until there is no longer forced apostasy, and the religion is God's.
Qur'an 25:52 Therefore listen not to the unbelievers, but strive against them with the utmost strenuousness, with the (Qur'an).
Qur'an 22:58 Those who leave their homes in the cause of God, and are then slain or die, on them will God bestow verily a goodly provision.
Osama bin Laden (本拉登)： "I was ordered to fight the people until they say there is no god but Allah, and his prophet Muhammad." 2001，Afghanistan videotape.

Exodus 20:13 "You shall not kill."
Deuteronomy 20:16-17 However, in the cities of the nations the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, do not leave alive anything that breathes. Completely destroy them…as the LORD your God has commanded you.
Samuel 15:18 Go and completely destroy those wicked people, the Amalekites; make war on them until you have wiped them out.
Matthew 34-36 "Do not suppose that I have come to bring peace to the earth. I did not come to bring peace, but a sword. For I have come to turn a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law - a man's enemies will be the members of his own household."
Luke 22:36 "But now, let him who has a purse take it, and likewise a bag. And let him who has no sword sell his mantle and buy one."

1.黃宗羲認為在上古時代很少人願意擔當君主的原因是：
a) 為君者職責繁重，而人性好逸惡勞
b) 戰爭頻仍，君王性命汲汲可危
c) 上古時代以君為主，天下為客
d) 上古時代實行禪讓制度，君位沒有保障

SOCIAL CONTRACT: SOVEREIGN AND AUTONOMY

GFH 1000 | Deng Yangzhou| dengyangzhou@cuhk.edu.cn|

1) FOREWORD: OF THE PEOPLE, FOR THE PEOPLE AND BY THE PEOPLE

Two modern political tenets inspired by, or alleged to, the classical work on political philosophy, namely the Social Contract (Hereafter "SC"):

a) Man is born equal and free (天賦人權);
e.g. United States Declaration of Independence
We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

b) Sovereign belongs to the people in a community (主權在民).
e.g. The Constitution of the People's Republic of China(中華人民共和國憲法)[1]
Article 1: the People's Democratic Dictatorship (人民民主專政)
Article 2: Power Belongs to the People (權利屬於人民)
Article 3: Democratic Centralism (民主集中製)

2) THE GUIDELINE

" Man is born free; and everywhere he is in chains. One thinks himself the master of others, and still remains a greater slave than they. How did this change come about? I do not know. What can make it legitimate? I believe I can solve this question."(SC, I,I, 1)

"Man is born free": natural liberty[2]
"and everywhere he is in chains": civil order including laws and dependence on others
"What can make it legitimate? I believe I can solve this question." the Reconciliation of Human Autonomy and Social Community[3]
Legitimacy: a general and reasonable recognition of the political authority
Autonomy: the capacity of a rational individual to be self-governed

Structure of the text

The whole discourse of the selected text is arranged around the above guideline.

Book I: Chapter II-IV, on the nature of man's freedom and right ("Man is born free").Chapter V-IX, on the nature of the "chain" in civil society, namely social contract.

Book II: Elaboration of the details of the "chain", including the nature of Sovereignty(主權), General Will (公意), Citizen (公民), Law (法律), Legislation (立法), People (人民).

3) THE PROBLEM: HUMANITY AUTONOMY AND CIVIL ORDER

General Subject of Inquiry

"I mean to inquire if, in the civil order, there can be any sure and legitimate rule of administration , men being taken

---

[1] http://english.peopledaily.com.cn/constitution/constitution.html
[2] "We are born free and equal in the sense that no person has by nature the right to command any other person nor the duty to submit to the commands of another. There is no natural hierarchy in the human species, no alpha-male whom the rest of us just have to put up with as the one in charge." (Bertram, 2004: 43)
[3] In the Social Contract, Rousseau thinks that the "fundamental problem" is "to find a form of association that will defend and protect with the whole common force the person and goods of each associate, and in which each, while uniting himself with all, may still obey himself alone, and remain as free as before." (SC, I,I, 6) as they are and laws as they might be."

"men as they are": self-love[4] and freedom[5] as human nature

"laws as they might be": a civil order in according to social equality

Re-formulation of the Fundamental problem (SC, I,V,4):

"The problem is to find a form of association which--"

a) "will defend and protect with the whole common force the person and goods of each associate,"

b) "and in which each, while uniting himself with all, may still obey himself alone, and remain as free as before."

Social Contract (SC, I,V,6-10):

To solve the problem, the associates (individuals) should alienate (讓度) their natural liberty for conventional liberty.

a) The alienation of their liberty and rights to the whole community is total, being without reserve.

b) Each man, in giving himself to all, gives himself to nobody, but to himself.

In short, the social contract is a contract "signed" by rational and moral political beings, with each other in the community, including themselves!

Loss and gain through the social contract (SC, I, 7)

Loss: natural liberty and unlimited right to everything

Gain: civil liberty and moral liberty civil liberty: equality between the community members[6]

moral liberty: self-actualization of himself; no longer as the slave of his impulses[7]

Civil State: the union of all persons[8]

4) THE RESULT: CIVIL STATE UNDER THE GENERAL WILL

General Will (公意)

Not "a particular will" [9], nor "the will of all"(ie. the sum of all particular wills) [10]. General will is the common will of all citizens (ie, the interaction of all particular wills) which aims at the common good.

"Each of us puts his person and all his power in common under the supreme direction of the general will, and, in our corporate capacity, we receive each member as an indivisible part of the whole."(SC, I, 6)

In short, the general will is the personal will of your yourself as a rational social being **!

[4] "Self-love is a sense of our own worth and concern about our well-being. Because it is essential to our nature, we have a basic interest in ensuring protection of our person and of the goods we need to survive and live well." (Cohen, 2010: 11)

[5] "Human beings are "born free," with the capacity to resist the pull of our inclinations, make judgments about the best aims and proper principles of our conduct, and regulate our own conduct in light of those judgments" (Cohen, 2010: 11)

[6] "…each man, in giving himself to all, gives himself to nobody; and as there is no associate over which he does not acquire the same right as he yields others over himself, he gains an equivalent for everything he loses, and an increase of force for the preservation of what he has." (SC, I, 6)

[7] "To renounce liberty is to renounce being a man, to surrender the rights of humanity and even its duties."(SC, I, 4)

[8] "This public person, so formed by the union of all other persons, formerly took the name of city, and now takes that of Republic or body politic; it is called by its members State when passive, Sovereign when active, and Power when compared with others like itself. Those who are associated in it take collectively the name of people, and severally are called citizens, as sharing in the sovereign power, and subjects, as being under the laws of the State." (SC, I, 6)

[9] "In fact, each individual, as a man, may have a particular will contrary or dissimilar to the general will which he has as a citizen. His particular interest may speak to him quite differently from the common interest: his absolute and naturally independent existence may make him look upon what he owes to the common cause as a gratuitous contribution, the loss of which will do less harm to others than the payment of it is burdensome to himself; and, regarding the moral person which constitutes the State as a persona ficta, because not a man, he may wish to enjoy the rights of citizenship without being ready to fulfil the duties of a subject." (SC, I,VII, 7)

[10] "There is often a great deal of difference between the will of all and the general will; the latter considers only the common interest, while the former takes private interest into account, and is no more than a sum of particular wills: but take away from these same wills the pluses and minuses that cancel one another, and the general will remains as the sum of the differences." (SC, II, III, 2)

Sovereignty (政權，主權)

The exercise of the general will[11].
A body of citizens that act collectively, and thus this authority should be exercised by all citizens, but not only by a master or a few of elites[12].
An ultimate authority in the decision-making process of the State and in maintenance of order.
The State or Sovereign is a "persona ficta" (虛擬人) (I,VII, 7), who has just one will (the general will), and act consistently in regard to common good.

Question: Can citizens arrive at general will?

5) THE DILEMMA: "FORCED TO BE FREE"?

Isaiah Berlin's Criticism of Rousseau

Two Concepts of Liberty:

Negative Freedom: understood as an absence of constraint
Positive Freedom: focuses on an agent's achievement of autonomy

An excuse for the dictator [13], a doctrine leading to genuine servitude[14]
e.g. Triumph of the Will (1935)[15]

"Forced to be free" [16]: absolute freedom or absolute despotism?

General will is one and for all; If the minority denies the majority, it is just because the former do not know what they want and even what the world is Conclusion: the minority must be "forced to be free" e.g. death penalty[17]

[11] "…Sovereignty, being nothing less than the exercise of the general will, can never be alienated, and that the Sovereign, who is no less than a collective being, cannot be represented except by himself" (SC, II, I)
[12] "the moment a master exists, there is no longer a Sovereign, and from that moment the body politic has ceased to exist." (SC, II,I)
[13] "The Jacobins, Robespierre, Hitler, Mussolini, the Communists all use this very same method of argument, of saying men do not know what they truly want – and therefore by wanting it for them, by wanting it on their behalf, we are giving them what in some occult sense, without knowing it themselves, they themselves 'really' want." (Berlin, 2002: 47)
[14] "This is Rousseau's central doctrine, and it is a doctrine which leads to genuine servitude, and by this route, from this deification of the notion of absolute liberty, we gradually reach the notion of absolute despotism." (Berlin, 2002: 47)
[15] http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Triumph_of_the_Will [16] "…that whoever refuses to obey the general will shall be compelled to do so by the whole body. This means nothing less than that he will be forced to be free" (SC, I, VI)
[17] "…every malefactor, by attacking social rights, becomes on forfeit a rebel and a traitor to his country; by violating its laws be ceases to be a member of it; he even makes war upon it. In such a case the preservation of the State is inconsistent with his own, and one or the other must perish; in putting the guilty to death, we slay not so much the citizen as an enemy." (SC, II, V)

1) Questions Within

1) In (I,II, 1-3), what does Rousseau try to tell by the analogy of family?
2) In (I, II) Rousseau criticizes Grotius for establishing "right by fact", and criticize Aristotle for confusing "effect" and "cause". Briefly rehearse his arguments in your own words.
3) Carefully study Rousseau's wording of the "fundamental problem" (I, VI, 4), noticing the two-fold purpose of it, and then tell how his solution of the problem (I, VI, 5-11) satisfies this purpose.
4) Why should each associate give himself "absolutely" to the community and achieve "total alienation" (I, VI, 6)?
5) Why the State or Sovereign is a "persona ficta" (I,VII, 7), which is not a person anyway?
6) Why should whoever refuses to obey should "be forced to be free" (I,VII, 8)?
7) Rousseau believes that in a civil state as he prescribes, man comes to be an "intelligent being" and acquire "moral liberty" (I, VIII). How do you understand his idea?
8) Study (I, IX, 1-2, 6), tell the difference between "right of possession" and "proprietorship", and tell why one should gives all of his possession to the Sovereign.
9) "…the general will is always right" (II, III, 1). How should this be understood?
10) "It is therefore essential, if the general will is to be able to express itself, that there should be no partial society within the State, and that each citizen should think only his own thoughts…"(II, III, 4). What is the result of such a "sublime" and "unique" situation?
11) "In putting the guilty to death, we slay not so much the citizen as an enemy" (II, V, 4). Justify this for Rousseau.
12) "The general will is always in the right, but the judgment which guides it is not always enlightened" (II, VII, 10). Make sense of this paradoxical expression.
13) "…in the first periods of nations, the one (religion) is used as an instrument for the other (politics)" (II, VII, 12). Why should the legislator have recourse to divinity according to Rousseau? Dwell on the question in light of (II, VII, 3).

2) Questions Beyond

1) What Rousseau raises in SC, in general, may be called an ideal model of democracy, namely republic democracy. This ideal is, in fact, different in some key aspects from the democratic models carried out by most western political entities nowadays. What is the major difference?

2) In order to reinforce his deification of the legislator, in (II, VII, 11) Rousseau quotes the words from Machiavelli, who is nevertheless known in the West for the notorious word of "Machiavellianism"(弄權術). Do you believe in, and trust in, a "sublime reason" who would always do the benefit on behalf of all people in a community?

THE WEALTH OF NATIONS: SELF-INTEREST VS. COMMON GOOD

GFH 1000| In Dialogue with Humanity | Deng Yangzhou | dengyangzhou@cuhk.edu.cn|

Suggested Reading: Chapters III and IV can be skipped.

当成人道主义思想家而非经济学家

A) SMITH'S PARADOXICAL CONCEPTION OF HUMAN NATURE

1) Wealth of Nations: Man as Economic Creature

As the only bartering creature man are rational agents, who is self-loving, focusing on personal interests always (WN, I, II 18).

Man has almost constant occasion fro the help of his brethren, and it is in vain for him to expect it from their benevolence only. He will more more likely to prevail if he can interest their self-love in his favor, and shew them that it is for their own advantage to do for him what re requires of them…. It is not from the benevolence of the butcher, the brewer, or the baker, that we expect our dinner, but from their regard to their own interest. We address ourselves, not to their humanity but to their self-love, and never talk to them of our own necessities but or their advantages (WN, I, II:18).

Will this Anti-Aristotelian self-interesting disposition lead to evil consequences in the society? Not necessary! There is an "invisible hand" which will take care of the distribution of social resource and strike to justice.

"…by directing that industry in such a manner as its produce may be of the greatest value, he intends only his own gain, and he is in this, as in many other cases, led by an invisible hand to promote an end which was no part of his intention…… By pursuing his own interest he frequently promotes that of the society more effectually than when he really intends to promote it. "(WN,IV, II, 10)

2) A Theory of Moral Sentiments: Man as Moral Sentimentalist

道德情操论

According to Smith in the Moral Sentiments, man is not even able to make moral judgments. That is to say, it is not the rational part, but the emotional part—the capacity of sympathy, love, and benevolence—within humanity, that makes a man a morally better person.

"How selfish so ever man may be supposed, there are evidently some principles in his nature, which interest him in the fortunes of others, and render their happiness necessary to him, though he derives nothing from it, except the pleasure of seeing it. Of this kind is pity or compassion, the emotion we feel for the misery of others, when we either see it, or are made to conceive it in a very lively manner. That we often derive sorrow from the sorrows of others, is a matter of fact too obvious to require any instances to prove it; for this sentiment, like all the other original passions of human nature, is by no means confined to the virtuous or the humane, though they perhaps may feel it with the most exquisite sensibility. The greatest ruffian, the most hardened violator of the laws of society, is not altogether without it." (Smith, 1984, p72).

In the Moral Sentiments, Smith attributes the judgment as for what is good and what is evil and the coordination of social justice to God and, again, to "the invisible hand".

C) BIG INSIGHT: "THE INVISIBLE HAND"

Behind both of Adam Smith's theories of division of labor and free market, and even his theory of moral sentiments, there is the "Invisible Hand". The exact metaphor is used just three times in Smith's writings, but has come to capture his important claim that individuals' efforts to maximize their own gains in a free market benefits society, even if the ambitious have no benevolent intentions.

Some theological scholars believe Smith, as a deeply Christian intellectual, takes the invisible hand tacitly as something from a divine wisdom.

The characteristic doctrine was one, in fact, which left little room for religious teaching as to economic morality, because it anticipated the theory, later epitomized by Adam Smith in his famous reference to the invisible hand, which saw in economic self-interest the operation of a providential plan... The existing order, except insofar as the short-sighted enactments of Governments interfered with it, was the natural order, and the order established by nature was the order established by God. (Tawney, 2013, p 191)

Modern economists usually take the metaphor as meaning a natural possibility of marketing adjustment. Milton Friedman called Smith's Invisible Hand "the possibility of cooperation without coercion."

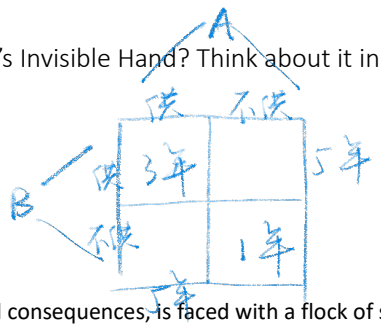

A free private market is a mechanism for enabling a complex structure of cooperation to arise as an unintended consequence of Adam Smith's invisible hand, without any deliberate design. A free private market involves the absence of coercion. People deal with one another voluntarily, not because somebody tells them to or forces them to." (Friedman, 1991)

Two Components of Adam Smith's Invisible Hand:

(1) Self-Love: the driving power to guide men to work for what human society is willing to pay for, but self-love itself does not promote social harmony.

(2) Competition: the conflict of the self-interested actors on the marketplace, a self-regulating force[1] (competition in demand--price rises[2]; competition in supply--price sinks[3]).

[Question: How do people relate with each other under Smith's Invisible Hand? Think about it in contrast to the relation of people lived under Rousseau's General Will.]

囚徒困境: Prisoner's Dilemma

[1] "For each man, out to do his best for himself with no thought of social consequences, is faced with a flock of similarly motivated individuals who are engaged in exactly the same pursuit..... A man who permits his self-interest to run away with him will find that competitors have slipped in to take his trade away; if he charges too much for his wares or if he refuses to pay as much as everybody else for his workers, he will find himself without buyers in the one case and without employees in the other."(Heilbroner, 1991: 55)

[2] "A competition will immediately begin among them, and the market price will rise more or less above the natural price, according as either the greatness of the deficiency, or the wealth and wanton luxury of the competitors, happen to animate more or less the eagerness of the competition."(The Wealth of Nations, book I, chapter VII)

[3] "Some part must be sold to those who are willing to pay less, and the low price which they give for it must reduce the price of the whole. The market price will sink more or less below the natural price" (The Wealth of Nations, book I, chapter VII)

D) BIG PROBLEMS

异化？

1) Division of labour or Alienation of Labour?

In general, Smith believes that the capital system based on division of labour promotes human welfare, by improving gross social wealth, the living condition of individual, and people's development of talents and potentials.

But how do we make sense of such miserable events as the successive suicides of workers in Foxconn?

2) Free Market of Free Hegemony?

霸权？

Smith, as well as his followers, believes that the invisible hand will do justice to distribution of social welfare.

But how do we then explain such phenomena as the "real estate hegemony" or the extreme disparity between the rich and poor in such a "completely free economy" as Hong Kong?

1) Warming-up Questions

1) According to Smith, in which ways does division of labour improve productivity?
1.By improving the dexterity of each work.
2.By saving the time commonly lost in passing from one kind of work to another;
3 By improving working safety;
4 By making production tasks more sophisticated ;
5 By applications of machines

c) The propensity to fight for one's own survival
d) The propensity to overcome one's own appetites

Economic and Philosophical Manuscript

A) The Moral Paradox behind Capitalism: Smith's Anticipation

In Adam Smith's articulation of capitalist economic mechanism, two paradoxical phenomena had already been noticed.

1) Division of Labor improves national wealth, and improves social welfare in general absolutely, but free markets may relatively reduce the value of labour and workmen's welfare (wage).

It may be true, perhaps, that the accommodation of an European prince does not always so much exceed that of an industrious and frugal peasant, as the accommodation of the latter exceeds that of many an African king, the absolute master of the lives and liberties of ten thousand naked savages. (Wealth of Nation, I-15)

They (workmen) are desperate, and act with the folly and extravagance of desperate men, who must either starve, or frighten their masters into an immediate compliance with their demands. …. The workmen, accordingly, very seldom derive any advantage from the violence of those tumultuous combinations. (Wealth of Nation, I-98)

Example: Dock workers strike in Hong Kong
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hx7l9nMUQWk

2) Division of labor facilitates development of human capacity specifically, but it may hinder human potential, spontaneity and understanding in general.

In the progress of the division of labour, the employment of the far greater part of those who live by labour, that is, of the great body of the people, comes to be confined to a few very simple operations, frequently to one or two. But the understandings of the greater part of men are necessarily formed by their ordinary employments. The man whose whole life is spent in performing a few simple operations, of which the effects are perhaps always the same, or very nearly the same, has no occasion to exert his understanding or to exercise his invention in finding out expedients for removing difficulties which never occur. He naturally loses, therefore, the habit of such exertion, and generally becomes as stupid and ignorant as it is possible for a human creature to become. The torpor of his mind renders him not only incapable of relishing or bearing a part in any rational conversation, but of conceiving any generous, noble, or tender sentiment, and consequently of forming any just judgment concerning many even of the ordinary duties of private life. Of the great and extensive interests of his country he is altogether incapable of judging, and unless very particular pains have been taken to render him otherwise, he is equally incapable of defending his country in war. The uniformity of his stationary life naturally corrupts the courage of his mind, and makes him regard with abhorrence the irregular, uncertain, and adventurous life of a soldier. It corrupts even the activity of his body, and renders him incapable of exerting his strength with vigour and perseverance in any other employment than that to which he has been bred. His dexterity at his own particular trade seems, in this manner, to be acquired at the expence of his intellectual, social, and martial virtues. But in every improved and civilized society this is the state into which the labouring poor, that is, the great body of the people, must necessarily fall, unless government takes some pains to prevent it" (Wealth of Nation, V-50).

A man without the proper use of the intellectual faculties of a man, is, if possible, more contemptible than even a coward, and seems to be mutilated and deformed in a still more essential part of the character of human nature. " (Wealth of Nation, V-61).

The Foxconn Example:
http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=MKnx2JWfNSM

These problems can be more complicated with Adam Smith's deep belief of the function of "Invisible Hand", the idea that social resources and social justice can be somehow automatically and "rationally" adjusted and balanced by themselves.

Will the Invisible Hand effectually create equality in civilized societies? Will the market itself balance justice and protect human well-being in a general way?

The Cotton Factories Regulation Act in 1819 tabled in the British Parliament
It would ban the employment of children under the age of 9
Older children (aged between 10 to 16) would still be allowed to work, but with their working hours restricted to 12/day
The new rules applied only to cotton factories
Opponents' argument: "the children want (and need) to work, and the factory owners want to employ them; what is the problem?"

改良者

Eventually, Adam Smith does not take all the problems too seriously, and his solution is mild and reformist, including better education, development of moral sentiments, etc.

革命者

It is Karl Marx who takes these problems seriously and fatally, and from them, attacks capitalism systematically, and radically.

B) Marx and Marxism

Marx's Personal Life

Born into a wealthy middle-class family in Trier
Studied philosophy at both the University of Bonn and the University of Berlin
In 1843, moved to Paris and met Engels, who provided Marx's main source of income since then
In 1849, moved to London, in which his family was reduced to extreme poverty
Had seven children with her wife, but owing to the poor living conditions they were forced to live, only three survived to adulthood
Spent a great deal of time in the reading room of the British Museum studying capitalism, and thus had accumulated over 800 pages of notes and essays by 1857
Died a stateless person in London in 14 March 1883

A penniless bourgeoisie, an intellectual to save the world yet to be unable to support the family.

Marxism

Human societies progress through class struggle: a conflict between an ownership class that controls production and a proletariat that provides the labour for production.

Capitalism is the "dictatorship of the bourgeoisie"(資產階級專政)， to be run by the wealthy classes for their own benefit; Capitalism produced internal tensions which would lead to its self-destruction and replacement by a new system: socialism.
Socialism society would be governed by the working class in what he called the "dictatorship of the proletariat"（無產階級專政）, the "workers' state" or "workers' democracy".
Socialism would eventually be replaced by a stateless, classless society called communism.
Social theorists and underprivileged people alike should carry out organized revolutionary action to topple capitalism and bring about socio-economic change

A specter is haunting Europe — the specter of communism. -- "The Communist Manifesto"

C) The Main Theme

The work of the "Economic and Philosophical Manuscript (1844)", is a work written by Marx at the young age. It paves the philosophical way of Marx's future ruthless attach against capitalism.

Main Theme: Capitalism is not properly fit for human because it denies the vast majority of people any chance to develop their real potential (J. Wolff, 2002. Why read Marx today? Oxford: Oxford University Press.)

Although Karl Marx states repeatedly that he was criticize an "economic fact", it should be noticed that his criticism is fundamentally not economic in the technical sense, but, rather, philosophically. That is to say, he criticize it from the moral and humanistic perspectives.

D) Two Criticisms of Capitalism

1) Criticism of Wage
2) Criticism of Alienation of Labour
